RUSSIAN COLD WAR //

Speaking in Fort Worth our deputy director of Central Intelligence, Gen. C. P. Cabell, made the point that at the time of Vice President Nixon's tour of South America, "it was probably more than a coincidence that 10 Soviet newsmen were traveling in South America at the same time. When Mr. Nixon and the Soviet newsmen were in Buenos Aires, a Peruvian Communist leader visited that city and then hurried back to Lima in time to take a conspicuous part in the demonstrations there against Mr. Nixon."

General Cabell also said that forgery is practiced by Moscow on a world-wide scale, recently, for instance, having used the East German Communist newspaper, "Neues Deutschland" in several campaigns built upon the fabrication and alleged "secret" discovery of United States documents, including an imaginary letter written by Nelson Rockefeller to President Eisenhower outlining a plan for U. S. domination of the world through economic and military aid programs. General Cabell pointed out that of course no such letter was written. The whole thing was a deliberate fabrication "for propaganda purposes" by and for the Soviet Union and the Communist bloc.
